LOCAL FLASHES

Facts and Fancies.

What effect in the stimulation of more traffic on the local auto and passenger ferry lower prices will have remains to be seen. On Tuesday, during its regular session, the Board of Supervisors of this county ordered a lower rate to go into effect—at once. This rate was the subject of discussion during the early fall session between the board and Captain John Drackett, who very willingly met the suggestion of cutting the prices in order that the public may enjoy to the fullest extent socially and profit commercially by the reduction of rates. The idea, we understand, is not so much to reduce the price as it is to stimulate travel. In other words, that people may use more frequently and embrace the advantage of using the ferry since it is part of the public road, bridge and ferry program of the board. It is a case of pro bono publico.

Crystal Springs, Utica and other points in Mississippi, well known and advertised as the greatest tomato-growing sections in the State and South, had best look to their laurels and guard them closely. Bay St. Louis is going to be a contender at no distant time. In fact, in the immediate future, Tomatoes grow to advantage along the Gulf Coast. In Bay St. Louis, however, they seem to do better than elsewhere. That is, growers in Bay St. Louis have shown remarkable individual success.

Out Main street seems to be the "garden spot" for the tomato. Willie Saucier, some few seasons ago, began with a small patch; gradually he expanded until no ground is lost as to space surrounding his home in Main street. He has grown the largest and best with success that calls for more than ordinary notice. This season he planted so extensively that he embraced considerable space of a neighbor's yard further down the street.

R. W. Toulme, along with others, too, has developed into successful grower of the "fruit," bright and red, with its health-giving properties to the consumer, and delicious to the taste. Mr. Toulme has found ample time to develop into quite an extensive "back-yard" tomato grower. Just now his vines are burdened, and it is necessary to tie them fast and securely in order to save the crop. Mr. Toulme has grown several varieties this year. He has among them the Pomorosa and the dwarf variety. The crop will be a full one, and within a few days will be ready for the local market.

Tomato growing in Bay St. Louis might develop into quite an industry. Just now it is restricted to the local market. But it is possible the Bay City might gain potential popularity and prosperity when it reaches the shipping stage. Crystal Springs and vicinity, shipping tomatoes by the car loads and train loads, is to Mississippi what the Hammond and Ponchatoula strawberry-growing territory is to Louisiana.

There was quite a "party" at the Peacock Tea Room Thursday afternoon in compliment to Class '24 of St. Stanislaus College. Mrs. Abigail Bourgeois, who "mothers" to quite an extent the collegians of S. S. C., was hostess to the boys. They said it was "great," measured by the good time they had enjoying the spirit of hospitality which prevailed. A long table had been set in the main dining room of the tea room and every color was in keeping with the college colors of black and red. A spread of solid refreshments was served. Each member of the class present was called upon to "say something." And did. That there was much and frequent applause well testifies to abundance of happy and felicitous speaking. Mrs. Bourgeois came in for a goodly share of the nice things said, and, best of all, every word of it was genuine. At the conclusion there was a rousing series of raps, and thus ended one of the pleasant chapters of the days marking the graduation of large class from S. S. C.

St. Stanislaus College has a large class this year, twenty-one in number. The date for exercises incident to the formal presentation of the coveted sheepskin occurs Sunday, June 15th. Last year there were twenty-six to graduate. But if all return next session will close with thirty-one members of the class. It will be the largest in the history of S. S. C. The success of St. Stanislaus College is best attested by the increase in attendance and the constant expansion of housing and other facilities. It is a significant meaning. Such success means much for Bay St. Louis, and it is useless to say how well this fact appreciated. The bonds of co-operation between Bay St. Louis and the college grow all the time. The spirit is one of mutual interest and thrives all the more since nothing succeeds like success.

Our friends in Waveland are to be congratulated upon the success which is attending their efforts to build the long-looked-for and long-wished-for sea wall. BAY AUTO FERRY HAS NEW RATES

Board of Supervisors of Hancock County Puts Into Effect Lower Rate For Transporting Automobiles—Rate Agreed Last Fall.

Pursuant to an agreement by and between the Board of Supervisors of Hancock county and Captain John R. Drackett, of the Bay St. Louis auto ferry, at a meeting held last fall, the board, in regular session this week, ordered that the new rates, discussed and agreed upon, go into effect at once.

According to the minutes of the supervisors, the new charge is 75 cents for automobile and driver, instead of $1.00 as before, a reduction of 25 cents which was agreed upon.

Since June 1st the Bay Ferry has extended its schedule to one extra trip, leaving Bay St. Louis at 6:45, returning leaving Henderson Point at 7:30 o'clock. The ferry travels on regular schedule, affords adequate and efficient accommodation, and proves a source of both pleasure and profit to users.

BEACH HOME IS VICTIM OF FIRE

Pettigrew Mansion on South Front Street Partly Destroyed at Early Hour This Morning—Firemen Save House From Total Destruction.

This Saturday morning at 1:45 o'clock, discovered by Sisters of St. Joseph's Academy and Convent, adjoining, partly destroyed and generally damaged the two-story frame dwelling on South Front street, owned and occupied at the time by H. N. Pettigrew, of New Orleans. The place is perhaps better known as the Markey Manor, built after the 1907 fire, by John F. Markey, for his own occupancy. The Clifton House was located here prior to that time.

The good sisters residing at the convent adjoining discovered the fire and turned in the alarm by telephone. The flames were first seen belching forth from one of the corners of the roof. Covered with slate, they were at first to spread. Immediately following the alarm the fire department was on the scene, and with promptness and intelligent application put the city's liberal force and force of water to winning advantage. The fire was stubborn in yielding and required persistent and hard work to control. At about 3 o'clock it was well subdued, but not without the entire roof practically gone and the place damaged by water throughout.

Insurance was carried in the Geo. R. E. Agency; $5,000.00 in the Liverpool, London and Globe Insurance Co., $1,000.00 in the Palmetto Company, a total of $6,000.00. On the furniture there was only $500 insurance. The amount of damage could not be estimated this morning; however, it will well nigh consume the insurance amounts.

No cause is assigned. That it was due to defective wiring is only conjecture.

Mr. Pettigrew, while helping to move things down stairs, slipped his foot and broke a leg above the ankle. He was taken to New Orleans this morning. The family had moved in only this week.

Grady Perkins, native and resident of Bay St. Louis, who graduated this year from A. & M. with class honors and whose academic standing has been high all during the four-year term, scores heavily in athletics as well. RETURN OF TOWN PRIDE SPIRIT IS NOTED.

What we think of as normal times may as yet be a long way off, but here and there straws point to an early return of that town and community pride which gave so much promise before the war. Nine years ago the sudden shift of interest to the World War dealt a severe blow to that community spirit which reflects itself in neat yards, clean streets, sanitation and paint. Today you do not have to travel far to note a change for the better. In fact, you can see it without going out of Bay St. Louis. Drive your auto to any point along the Mississippi-Gulf Coast and there is evidence on every side to sustain the fact hereto pointed. In fact, there are more improvements in course of doing between Pascagoula and Bay St. Louis than at any one time in the history of the Coast. In many places contracts have been let for long delayed improvements. Most of the smaller communities in particular seem to be bringing up shabby and shining buttons, so to speak. Motorists notice the change in the constant improvement that is going on along our highways. Once a main road of travel is improved through a community, a transformation takes place. The people of one town awaken to the fact that they are not as peat in appearance, to the stranger on the road, as the rival nearby town. Presently a property owner improves his place, out of pride or business sagacity, and in the place becomes spotless.

At no time since immediately before the war, and we doubt any other time, would Hancock county have gone into such an extensive program of road building as at present. These improvements, by the way, are not tentative, but actual. Good roads, better improvements along the route and motorists are quick to notice the change.

According to architects, contractors and engineers, scores of municipalities are about to undertake improvements of a public nature. The bulk of these are in the form of street paving, waterworks, sewers and small bridges. A number of progressive small towns are establishing playgrounds and parks, where the children can play and be safe from accidents in the streets. They are providing against the day when ground will be higher in price and when the people of the town will demand a breathing place for their children. Biloxi issued bonds last year in an amount that would make the average town and taxpayer stagger. Of this amount a large slice was for the purchase of public park and playground space. The advent of the automobile in prolific numbers and general congestion makes this imperative. Yes, town pride spirit is returning all over the country; it is not right here at home. Even our front yards and back yards are in better condition. Let us hope that we keep up with the procession.

MAKE THEM WIDER AND SAFER.

At the same time that we are paying for better roads, and praying for better roads, let's also put in a plea for wider ones, and whenever it is impossible to speak a good word for them, let's do so. Since the auto came every section of the country has seen the necessity of wider roads than we had during the horse-and-buggy days. Several States have passed laws regulating the width and fixing it around 18 and 20 feet. Everyone realizes that our roads must be straighter, wider, more level and with better foundations. This being true, it is better to build once and properly than often and inefficiently. It is costing a great deal of money to change the old roads and make them wider, but if we expect to keep step with progress that's what we've got to do. As people and autos continue to increase there can be no such thing as comfort and convenience for either rural or town people in maintaining buggy trails instead of wide, well-surfaced roads. And property values will quickly show which section in content with narrow roads and which one believes in the wide ones. Hancock county's new highways are none less than 18 feet in width. The wisdom of such course is apparent and will prove itself over and over many times. City streets and country roads cannot be too wide. It is the narrow road or street that furnishes the scene of every auto wreck and tragedy. If we pay for better roads, let's pray for wider roads.

APPEAL ISSUED FOR STORM SUFFERERS.

Jackson, June 5.—Governor Whitfield has issued a call to the people of Mississippi for contributions to a tornado relief fund to be used in the devastated district in Covington and Pike counties. The appeal was made in the form of a letter to the people of Mississippi and was issued late yesterday, after the governor had returned and received the report of Adjutant General Curtiss Green, who had made a detailed investigation in Collins, Summit and Johnson stations.

THE GULF COAST IS CALLING.

A New Orleans print of Sunday carried a full page layout of scenes from one of the Mississippi Gulf Coast towns, and in another section an excellent write-up of the place, extolling its advantages, etc., as a summer resort. The article said many thousands would summer there. This very page of pictures and the write-up will make it a fact regarding the thousands.

Someone in Bay St. Louis, on seeing the "picture spread" and accompanying story, very quickly said, "That is what Bay St. Louis should do." Doubtless thousands, not only in Bay St. Louis but at other points gave expression to similar and timely thought.

There is a whole lot back of such enterprise. It takes more effort and costs more than the complacent and meaningless expression of "This ought to be done" and "That ought to be done." Which in the last analysis means nothing. It is a common expression. Means, nothing, counts for nothing. In the vernacular, cut it out. We must be up and doing.

The Gulf Coast town with the "picture spread" and write-up is Biloxi. The move is big. It means concerted action, organized and united effort, intelligently applied. Business men and others banded together. Then the check book. Printer's ink costs money, but in the end it is nothing compared with results.

Why do many people out of New Orleans travel North, East and West? Embark on long and tiresome journeys; subject themselves to a sudden change of climate, diet and water? After a few weeks they return and tell of "the wonderful time."

"It was simply grand and you just missed it!" The more of an ordeal the trip, the bigger the lie. Generally, those who least can afford the trip take it.

The answer is, advertising. We find daily far-away resorts extensively and alluringly advertised. The railroads, too, participate in this advertising, justified by the long haul patronage. Distance lends enchantment, the poet has said.

The Mississippi Gulf Coast, the Summer Playground of the South, and more particularly of New Orleans, is calling. There are a thousand and one health-giving and pleasure-giving diversions here. The ozone of the pine belt is compelling; the Gulf breezes are exhilarating, like some rare exotic fragrance; the sun and sea bathing is inviting and health-giving; the moss-em swayed and oak-lined paths and winding roads of many miles are calling the pedestrian and motorists. It is a veritable paradise. With your loved ones or loved one, and with so little to satisfy—

"Here with a loaf of bread beneath the bough,
A flask of wine, a book of verse—and Thou,
Beside me singing in the wilderness—Oh, Wilderness were Paradise now!"

So why journey away? The Elysium we would seek is here. The Mississippi Gulf Coast is calling, irresistibly. There will be less dead fears if we give it more publicity. Properly exploited the Coast easily should prove the Mecca for vacationists and others who would seek and enjoy the land of the heart's and soul's desire. Why seek further? Aladdin had no easier task.

ASK THE CHINAMAN—HE WILL TELL YOU.

Isn't this an awful country—with bobbed hair, high taxes, oil scandals and the price of eggs! Hard to make a decent living here; no chance to get along. You hear something like this pretty often on the streets of Bay St. Louis. But the next time you do tell the fellow who is doing the talking to ask the Chinaman what he thinks of America. At the present moment there are 30,000 Chinamen waiting in Cuba, watching for some way to be smuggled into the United States. They are willing to pay from $200 to $2,500 a head to anyone who will accommodate them. Ask the man who "knocks" America if he doesn't think our chance ought to be as good as the heather's, since we already know the nation's language and customs. If the man from China is willing to pay as much as $2,500 to get to this land of opportunity to make his fortune, we ought to be able to keep even with the bill collector, at least.

CITIES NEED HOTELS.

Since other towns have seen how easy it was for Yazoo City to organize a successful movement for a $100,000 hotel, a number of them have determined to do likewise. One of the very best assets, not only in popularity, but in financial results, for any town, is a good hotel. There is no standing still amid the march of modern progress. The town or city which does not advance will surely retrograde. The absence of a good hotel is like a millstone around the progress of any community. Such a millstone was weighed down by such a millstone for many years. But since she now possesses hotel facilities superior perhaps to any city of the Union of her population has rapid march along all lines of endeavor appears to be the wonder and admiration of Mississippians. Of course, towns must build hotels according to population and resources. Every progressive town in Mississippi can have adequate hotel facilities by united and patriotic co-operation of its men and women.

BROADCASTINGS.

The people who are disgusted when Congress does nothing, and they are scared to death when it looks like it might do something.

Have you ever noticed that when they tear down an old landmark in a town they always build a filling station?

One reason farmers accomplish more than Congress is they don't meet at 11 o'clock and adjourn at 2.

It's bad either way. If a man pays too little taxes the collector looks suspicious and if he pays too much the grand jury gets busy.

Small boys are pretty well up in the three R's. We refer to 'rastling, reading and ragtime.'

Maybe the reason a woman likes a pretty line is because she can get a line on the other party.

The telephone companies say spooning costs them $12,000 a year. But just look what it costs the fellows who do the spooning.

The average woman doesn't make much headway driving a nail. But did you ever watch the average man trying to tie up a bundle of clothes?

Everybody makes a mistake now and then. But why pick out a railroad crossing as a place for making it?

It would be a lot better world if every man was as anxious to clean a string of fish as he is to catch them.

We may live to be pretty old, but we never expect to live long enough to find a woman who puts as much confidence in her husband as she does in the family doctor.

What has become of the old-fashioned girls who used to put on long dresses and play like they were women?

At the present rate we will just about have all of our roads in good shape by the time people get to traveling in airplanes.

This is the time of year when the small boy wishes he was a giraffe, so he could taste ice cream and strawberries that much longer.

This is a fine country to talk about the importance of education when it only buys a school teacher about what a second-class prize fighter gets.

THE RING Local Sports. THE DIAMOND.

"BIG" PETERSON BEATS GILL.
Wiseacres Fall Down—Ted Nelson Wins Over Heitzmann—Paul Favre Puts It Over Pinky Cady—Gnat: Weights Go to Draw in Prelim.

It looked every bit like the fans were going to be treated to a shower on last Monday night at the Victory arena, where the local post of the American Legion were holding their boxing shew. Jape Pluvius must be a lover of the sport, for he withheld his jibes from the heads of the unprotected and allowed the fight to go on. The intentions of the ring god were very much doubted by the officials in charge of the affair, and they hurriedly ran in the main bout ahead of the semi-final. Jape's buck didn't turn over and the semi was carried over in good order.

The main game was an eight-round affair between Leroy Gill, an unknown in these parts, versus "Big" Peterson of the Kilm. The wise ones were going about before the scrap telling all about what this new bird was going to do to our Big 'Un. To hear them tell it, Gill had a wallop that would draw respect from the nation's own Jack; he was so darn fast that he often passed himself, and had more science than our late lamented Steinmetz—in fact, the Pete boy looked as good as carved and passed around to the company.

When the Gill ambled to the center of the ring for referee's instructions, the writer felt that there may yet be something in the prediction of the rabbler, for the bird cracked up more on the order of a fierce fighter than any we'd seen for a long list of moonies deep of chest, square head, with a good neck, fair biceps and narrow hipped, he looked the trained athlete.

Pete shot an eye over in the southwest corner and came to the conclusion that he was up against a bird whose feathers would be hard to ruffle and when the gong started the action Pete was a tecny bit nervous.

Gill stepped up to center like an old-timer and looked the part to the inch, so much so that the backers of Peterson squirmed a bit. Their favorite was up against a stronger proposition than ever before. It soon developed that their fears were groundless. Pete met his man and soon found Gill's desire was the same as his own: to feel out the other man. The second round hadn't gone far before Pete was seen getting rid of his perverseness; he sent out a straight left that found a landing place over Gill's left eye and caused that optic to take on a worried look. Gill kept talking and trying to draw Pete in close, but the lanky lad answered with swift left jabs to the bad eye that splattered red. Gill essayed a hook on coming out of the clinch, but it didn't find a mark.

In the fifth Peterson caught Gill on the chin with a right that set him down; he rose from his knees but kept his glove on the floor till the count of nine. In the sixth Pete opened the sore eye again with jabs. Pete narrowly missed catching the bad eye that Gill sent over in the seventh.

It was Peterson's fight all the way through and he deserved the ovation accorded him at the decision.

Whipping Gill put Pete's stock up to the limit.

Heitzmann Loses to Nelson.

The semi-final that was fought immediately after the main bout, between Roger Heitzmann and Ted Nelson, for six rounds, was a scrap from going to going; the boys went at it hammer and tongs, not allowing a moment to pass unheeded. It was a whirlwind affair, with both boys giving and taking some hard whacks. Heitzmann, in his head, lowered and bent over by the many punches that Nelson used was really the cause of the local lad's loss.

Nelson is a very clever lad and handles himself well, much the better boxer of the two, though not as aggressive as Roger.

It was a good scrap and appreciated by the big crowd. Nelson getting the decision at the end of the sixth.

Paul Peppers Pinky.

The bout between Paul Favre and "Pinky" Cady scheduled for four rounds, was won by Favre. The boys put up a good fight and there was no stalling; they slammed each other around, doing little or no damage; Paul taking the most telling blows on him, the referee's decision. Warming up to his success, the fighting Paul challenged the winner of the semi.

Cast-Weights in Draw.

Young Mandot, who was defeated by Battling Scafide in their last time, fought the Battler to a draw this time. It was a subscription bout and the fighters went into the ring something over eleven dollars for them, showing their appreciation of the good fight the fids put up.

In Battling Scafide Mandot has found a tough antagonist, an aggressive boy who is hot afraid to take a punch. Mandot's excellent foot work was missing to a great extent in this fight.

BASEBALL

JUNIOR A. CLOSSES SUCCESSFUL ATHLETIC YEAR.

On Monday, June 4, the S. S. C. Junior A. A., St. Stanislaus College, completed another year of existence. This organization has had during its brief life a most wonderful development. Beginning four years ago with a few members, it produced this season five foot ball teams, fifteen basketball teams, ten baseball teams, and a track membership of 100. Probably no other school in the country can boast of a system of athletics for its Juniors which embraces, as is done at S. S. C., 95 per cent of its scholars. In fact, the Junior A. A. has grown too strong; and its activities are far superior to any other club or organization of the College.

That the untiring efforts of its promoter are highly appreciated is evidenced not only by the enthusiasm displayed by the students, but especially by the interest which the people of Bay St. Louis manifest at opportune moments.

This year's baseball schedule was particularly brilliant. Over one hundred future "Babe Ruths" participated in fifty complete games. Considering the handicaps of a sandy, crowded campus that has not kept pace with other progress, and the limited time devoted to play, one realizes what a high degree of leadership is required to carry out such an extensive program.

Although the schedules, box scores and the names, records and photos of the association's athletic heroes were not blazoned across the sporting page of the dailies, still the memory of the happy days of keen competition in football, basketball, baseball and track will linger long and fondly in the minds of those healthy red-blooded participants.

Following are the results of the 1924 baseball season:

McNamara, 285;	Coronado, 290;
Rivera, 227;	N. Merriam, 222;
Calhoun, 200;	Carver, 200.

Freshmen Defeat Sophomores.

In a well played game the Freshmen defeated the Sophomores.

Giordina's pitching was too much for the Sophomores. He allowed them only one hit and struck out fourteen men. He also got three hits out of four times up to the plate.

"Sammie" Green caught a wonderful game for the Freshmen, while Saucier was the star player, being the only player for the Sophomores getting a hit off Giordina. "Blink" Young started off on the mound for the Sophomores, but was knocked out of the box in the fourth inning, and "Southpaw" Gordon took his place. Gordon, however, held the Freshmen well in hand during the last three innings.

The Sophomores were the first ones to score when Scott went safe on an error, stole second and scored on a wild pitch. Giordina struck out the next three batters. The Freshmen came back in the second and scored five runs, enough to win the game, when Giordina singled to left, stole second; Green struck out, Bradley walked and Joe Ciacco singled to left and scored Giordina and Bradley. Thierry went out, second to first, but Meyers caught one and sent it for two bags, and Ciacco scored. Meyers afterwards scored on Blenkinsop's two-base hit to left and Blenkinsop scored on Bellini's three-base hit. Kenison ended the inning by striking out.

The Sophomores started their second as if they were going to score a few runs when Saucier doubled to right, but died there when Giordina struck out the next three men.

The Freshmen scored in the fifth and sixth innings, bringing their total up to nine runs.

GOOD CARD FOR NEXT MONDAY.

Harry "Kangaroo" Cameron Meets Kid Thomas in the Main Game—Cave Man" Feraci To Meet Louis Martin—Two Colored Opponents Meet When John Smith Encounters "Rough House" Ware, Colored Champ of the South.

The Legion's card for next Monday night, June 9th, is a very attractive one. "Kangaroo" Cameron, of the Kiln, is slated to go eight rounds with Kid Thomas, of the Bay.

They are a worthy pair and will show up well.

It has been some time since Thomas fought in the local arena, but all remember him as cool headed fighter who can take a punch and who carries a sooth that counts.

In Cameron he meets an opponent that can meet him at his own game and who also has a mean whip.

The semi-final will be between "Cave-Man" Feraci and Louie Martin, both from the big burg, and well known scappers.

As they are both breaking in the Coast game, there's no doubt they will show all they carry in stock.

Besides the usual lively prelims, a match has been affected between two well known colored scappers in John "Gasoline" Sama, a local product, and "Rough House" Ware, who claims the colored championship of the South at the 165-pound weight.

This will no doubt be a slugging match well worth seeing, and a knockout is expected.

The excellence of the card has forced the Legion officials to raise the price of admission by a quarter.

At that a full house will be on hand.
